Actuarial Science Workshop:

Automation in the Workplace

Friday, November 4, 2016

12:00 PM–12:50 PM

Alter 031

With data analytics and predictive modeling becoming a quickly emerging part of the actuarial field, the Actuarial Science Career Development team presents its brand new workshop, Automation in the Workplace. This workshop will include topics such as modeling, programming, and statistical coding in various languages used in the actuarial profession. Students from our program, Ureem James, AIG, and David Orsi, Liberty Mutual, will be sharing their experiences using automation in their internships, followed by a practical demonstration of how automation can aid actuarial work. This workshop will provide valuable knowledge of the technical skills required in the industry beyond what is taught in the classroom.

Attention RMI 3682 Students!

If you have not already fulfilled your community service requirement, there are still two opportunities left. Please do not wait until the last minute to sign up, as failing to complete a community service event will negatively impact your final grade!
